Kellie's Grown-Up Nip-Tuck

FOREHEAD
 "Her heavy eyelids, the most noticeable change on her upper face, are likely from too much Botox [$2K a year] in the forehead," says NYC cosmetic dermatologist Dr. Kenneth Mark.

NOSE
 "A very minimal rhinoplasty [$12,000] was done," suspects Dr. Lyle Back, a Philadelphia cosmetic surgeon who doesn't treat Kellie. "It suits her features and looks very natural."

CHEEKS
 "Fillers [up to $10,000] changed her face — now it's totally rounded," says Dr. Mark. "Kellie was near perfect to begin with, and this overplumping has made her look older."

LIPS
 "The best change overall is Kellie's lower lip," observes Dr. Mark. "Juvéderm has beautifully filled in missing volume from her right lower lip." Cost for an improved pout: $600 and up.

Kellie Pickler was just 19 when she captured hearts with her down-home charm as a contestant on American Idol in 2005. Once she hit Hollywood, though, it didn't take long for the North Carolina native to jump on the nip-tuck bandwagon. In fact, before her Idol season even ended, Kellie appeared to have undergone a modest boob job [$15K], notes Dr. Lyle Back, a Philadelphia cosmetic surgeon. Back then, show host Ryan Seacrest also playfully noted the apparent enhancement — and, as the bubbly blonde's post-Idol solo career advanced, her looks evolved even more dramatically. An extensive revamp of her pearly whites probably cost the singer upwards of $44K, estimates NYC cosmetic dentist Dr. Nicholas Toscano, who, like the other doctors quoted here, has not treated the star. Pricey? Sure. But not as extreme as her seeming penchant for injectables. Although Kellie now looks more polished and her features are more classically balanced, "she's had too much filler!" critiques NYC cosmetic dermatologist Dr. Kenneth Mark. While replacing lost volume can produce a youthful, plumped and lifted face in people in their 40s and up, Dr. Mark explains that an overabundance of hyaluronic acid filler in the celeb's mid and lower face has, paradoxically, made Kellie look older than her 29 years. Luckily, the effects are mostly temporary. "You're the one that has to look at yourself every day," says Kellie. "It's important that you're happy with what you see. You can't worry about what everyone else thinks." LS

BEFORE OR AFTER BOOTY BOOST?

Khloé Kardashian

Has divorce gone to her derriere? Because the landscape of 31-year-old Khloé's rear has certainly changed since 2012, left. Whether it's the result of butt implants or a Brazilian butt lift (in which fat is removed from the tummy and thighs via liposuction and then injected into the booty to make it fuller and rounder), no one knows for sure. But one thing is certain: Baby's got back now! Guys we polled love the upgrade, of course.
